

Dear Texas colleagues,

I am happy to share that the National Endowment for the Arts (NEA) has offered an extension for a notice of funding opportunity for the folks impacted by the central Texas flooding. Please see below for details from NEA:

NEA has extended the FY26 Grants for Arts Projects 2 application deadline for those organizations that are experiencing weather-related difficulties due to recent storms in Texas and North Carolina (e.g., power outages, lack of reliable internet access, etc.). For all other applicants, the application deadline will remain Thursday, July 17, 2025, at 11:59 pm Eastern Time.

Organizations must request an extension by contacting the NEA at weatheremergency@arts.gov no later than Thursday, July 24, 2025. Please be sure to include your name, location, the legal name of your organization, and your contact information. Very briefly, explain the weather-related difficulties due to recent storms in Texas and North Carolina that prevent you from submitting an application by July 17th.

Please share this information with your members and constituents in the impacted areas and if you have questions, please reach out directly to Eleanor Billington, Civic Partnerships Manager, NEA at billingtone@arts.gov or weatheremergency@arts.gov.

With thanks,

Sarah
